One of Peru's hidden gems. Huaraz contains some of Peru's finest Alpine scenery in one of the world's highest mountain ranges.

The mighty Huascarán Mountain is the second highest in South America at over 6900m above sea level. It boasts magnificent glacial lakes and quaint villages with charming locals.

The Chavin culture flourished here for many centuries before the Incas and a trip here will not be forgotten. Easily accessible from Lima, this trip is for those with a love of the outdoors and magical scenery.
